Adelaida has five organically-farmed vineyards in the coastal influenced Santa Lucia Mountain Range on the west side of the Paso Robles AVA. Situated on steep hillsides, these sites lie within the Adelaida District, a sub-appellation in the northwest corner of the wine region. With elevations ranging from 1400 - 2050 feet, limestone subsoils, and extreme diurnal temperature swings, averaging 45 degrees, Adelaida produces wines with distinct expressions of their site.

Compared to past vintages in the Adelaida District, 2020 was slightly warmer than average and culminated in typical yields across most varieties. Adelaida received just 12.4 inches of rain during the 2019-2020 winter, which is about half the historic average, with February being entirely dry. Though come late March and April, the vineyards were made nice and green thanks to some late-season showers.

This vintage of Anna's White brings to the stage a star trio of Adelaida's white varieties. Strikingly aromatic, this dry wine opens with aromas of salty ocean air, crushed seashell, and lemon zest. The palate shows yellow pear and fig sprinkled with candied ginger, rounded out with notes of warm pie crust and French baguette. It's a refreshing wine to sip well chilled at an alfresco lunch, yet with ample volume to enjoy with richer fall dishes. This is a superb vintage for our estate-grown white varieties. Drink now through 2023.
